

Jodie Rawles

Female Welfare Officer

Hi, I'm Jodie and I'm a first year PhD student in Psychiatry. I am running for Female Welfare Officer as I am passionate about mental health and want to help promote the wellbeing of students at Hughes.

Relevant experience

- Studied a BSc in Psychology & a MSc in Mental Health Ethics and Law
- Volunteered as a peer mentor during my undergraduate degree
- Worked as an Assistant Psychologist in various NHS mental health services
- Worked as a Therapeutic Support Worker in a secondary school counselling team

My plans for the role

- Being someone that students can come to with any welfare-related issues they are experiencing and responding to these with sensitivity and confidentiality
- Signposting students to relevant University and local support services
- Carrying on the great Sunday tradition of 'Tea and Cake'
- Organising mental health and wellbeing themed events in college that aim to raise awareness and challenge stigma
- Collaborating with other colleges and the Graduate Union on issues related to mental health and welfare

Nominated by: Jessica Domiczew

Seconded by: Millie Horton-Insch